

Medieval Outdoor Games

A student stands in front of the keep. England

Rebecca Locklear

Skaket Books and Art

Contents

Introduction	2
Ball and Rope Game	4
Shield Game	5
More Outdoor Games	7
Author	8

Where can these cooperative and skill games be used?

- English - Elementary reading or 6-12 literature classes when in the Middle Ages
- Music and Drama performances as a demonstration
- Middle Ages Fayres
- P.E. - when outdoor games involve different cultures or time periods
- Art classes where students design, paint, and play!
- History of the Middle Ages classes
- Home - Bring out these games for family backyard gatherings!

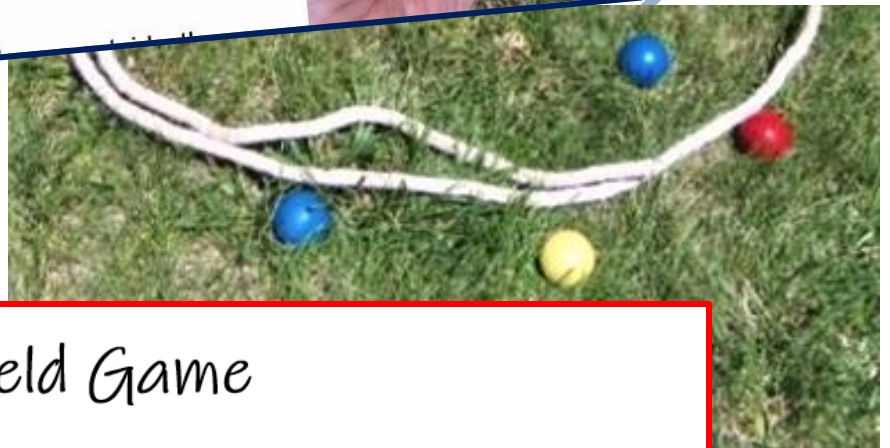

Ball and Rope Game

Ages: All ages, but particularly suited for elementary.

Goal: Skill in hand-eye coordination.

Materials: Thick piece of rope, three red wooden balls, three blue wooden balls, three yellow wooden balls – two inches in diameter. Find wooden balls at any craft store and paint them.

Directions:

Shield Game

Ages: 8 – adult

Goal: Teamwork, cooperation.

Materials: 8-14 shields, homemade ball.

How to make shields

Shield is a part of an art project at school or an afterschool activity for students. They can be made from cardboard, or from wood. For design,

How to make a ball

To be authentic, make a soft ball in the shape of a football.

First, take a piece of thin leather and stitch it by hand. Then stuff it with old socks or other material.

The ball I made to the right is 12.5 X 5.5 inches –

Other Outdoor Games

Stilts

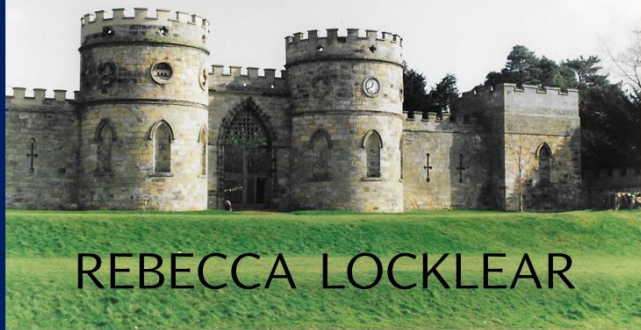

Ring Toss

Fun cooperative and skill games for your bag of tricks!

Medieval Outdoor Games

REBECCA LOCKLEAR, Writer

www.rebeccalocklear.com

“I expect I will be known as having ‘different kinds of games’ at my place.
Great resource. Thank you.” – Amazon customer